

Toward a Culture of UNIVERSITY ETHICS

Ronald Ehrenberg (Cornell University), Scott Jaschik (Georgetown University), and James Finkelstein (George Mason University) raised questions about money and transparency. Only a handful of our nation's private institutions have both need-blind admissions and financial aid policies. The necessity for donations must be tempered by flexibility in the use

⋮

The award-winning filmmaker Martin Doblmeier presented his film, ... .., at a screening and panel on February 1. The panelists, in addition to Doblmeier, were Lisa Cahill, professor of theology at Boston College; Andrew Finstuen, dean of the honors college and interim vice provost at Boise State University (and former Boisi Center assistant director); Mark Massa, S.J., former dean of the Boston College School of Theology and Ministry, and t72 (t d7-25.i)9 (e)-1 (l)9 (e)-1. de a-12-25.3 ()20.8. (i)-nter72 (t(u o)9./rec)Tj;t d(f)-25.9dr0 l 0 0 ff(ses2017(anlifer d)1 (e)-1.4 (a)- at Bca(ondorothy day: the world will be saved by beauty

The Boisi Center for Religion and American Public Life

Boston College
24 Quincy Road
Chestnut Hill, MA 02467 USA

ADDRESS SERVICE REQUESTED

staff updates: what's next?

Ryan Dwyer

Parker

Amelia

Sylvia Wagborne

Tom Fraatz

Suzanne Hevelone

fall 2017 events

- Oct 12 David DiPasquale ()
- Oct 4 Christine Helmer ()
500
- Oct 11 Land O' Lakes at 50: The Future of Catholic Higher Education
- Oct 2 David Decosimo ()
- Oct 7-10 Educating for Modern Democracy
- Oct 16 Summit of Centers on Religion and Public Life